Taylor Wimpey Manchester Site Manager gets the Seal of Excellence

Phil Hollows, site manager at Taylor Wimpey's Heathfield Farm development in Wilmslow, is celebrating having been awarded the Seal of Excellence from the NHBC.

Following his Quality Award in the first round of the competition in June this year, Phil has now progressed further, receiving the accolade which recognises those who display the highest standards in house building.

Organised by NHBC, the UK's leading warranty and insurance provider for new homes, the awards are the most highly regarded in the house-building industry. They recognise and reward a site manager's dedication to achieving the highest standards in house building, and their commitment to building homes of outstanding quality.

Phil Hollows, site manager at Heathfield Farm said: "It was an honour to win the Pride in the Job award back in June and then to add the Seal of Excellence on top is just fantastic. Having worked in the construction industry for many years, it's great to know you are doing a good job and I am very proud of what we have achieved."

Chloe Dunn, sales and marketing director for Taylor Wimpey Manchester, added: "Receiving a Seal of Excellence Award is a great achievement for any site manager as it places them right at the top of their profession. We are extremely proud of Phil and the rest of the team for working hard, especially during these unprecedented times."

Due to Covid-19 restrictions, a series of online events are taking place throughout October and November, providing the opportunity to celebrate the Seal of Excellence on the 40th anniversary year of NHBC's Pride in the Job.

Phil was one of three Taylor Wimpey site managers across Manchester to be awarded the Seal of Excellence.
